NEWS RELEASE

HealthSpace Announces Strategic Data Collaboration with Keboola

VANCOUVER, BC – October 13, 2016 - HealthSpace Data Systems Ltd. (the "Company" or "HealthSpace") is pleased to announce a new partnership with Keboola (<https://www.keboola.com>), an innovative data integration and collaboration platform. This strategic collaboration will create a customized data analytics product targeted at restaurant & hospitality chains, as well as data aggregators and research organizations. This initiative will allow companies and other organizations access to meaningful insights and provide a real-time view into the health scores that are available in their geography as well as comparable information trans-nationally. For food & beverage and hospitality companies the HS Data platform will alert users to prevalent critical violations and potential quality control issues.

"HealthSpace has seen tremendous growth in our inspection data set over the past two years with several statewide implementations of our technology platform. We are further positioned to grow by at least 10% in new data collection throughout the remainder of 2016. Moving into 2017, we anticipate our data collection business to increase by an additional 50%. The new HSData product line that is launching this month will allow us to bring this valuable information in the form of a smart and insightful analytical platform to both government and commercial enterprise customers. Keboola's experience makes this initiative possible as they have developed a best-in-class framework that will become the basis of this new platform," commented Silas Garrison, Chief Technology Officer.

HealthSpace is an industry leading data collection software provider used by environmental health agencies to track health inspections. The HealthSpace technology suite combined with Keboola's robust platform and data analytics expertise is anticipated to deliver a best-in-class value proposition and prove to be an invaluable product for existing and future customers. Using software such as this will allow many companies to get ahead of potential food-borne outbreaks by increasing knowledge of sanitation issues. HealthSpace will be releasing the first iteration of this new data based product line this quarter.

"Keboola uses its innovative data platform and consulting practice to help companies like HealthSpace create globally successful data analytics and distribution products. HealthSpace's role as the platform of choice for health authorities gives them a unique opportunity to become a leading health inspections data provider for the hospitality industry and beyond. We're proud that they chose Keboola as their data processing and distribution partner to help them achieve this goal," commented Milan Veverka, Partner at Keboola.
